Newsletter 22nd March 2024

We hope you found the Parent-Teacher consultations a great chance to look at your child's work and have an informative discussion with their class teacher. It was fantastic to see so many parents/carers on site enjoying the opportunity to discuss their child's progress so far this year.

Thanks to the generosity of the PTA, we are planning to expand our existing library collection of dual-language texts. We are proud that ESPS welcomes families from many places into our diverse community. These books - English text alongside another language - help children to enjoy reading and learn to read in English. They also help us to celebrate the many languages across the school.

We would also be delighted to receive donations. Please bring any dual-language books, in any language, to the office, for the attention of Mrs Rixon. It would be lovely if you were to write a dedication on the inside cover of the book to greet readers. Our thanks for your kindness in advance.

STEM poster competition:

Congratulations to all the amazing young minds who participated in our Stem Week Poster Competition! Your creativity, curiosity, and passion for STEM truly shone through your incredible artworks. After much deliberation, we are thrilled to announce the winner is A in 3C for his poster on the vital work of environmentalists and conservationists through the ages. Special mention also goes to A in 4F and C in 2B for their posters on the birth and death of a star and technological advances through time. Once again, congratulations to all our remarkably talented participants.

Key Stage 2 were treated to a special assembly from former Team GB fencer, Theo. With the help of F, he demonstrated some excellent fencing skills and launched the new fencing club for the summer term (more booking spaces added due to demand).

Rags2Riches:

The school community collected an impressive 352kg of unwanted clothes and raised a fantastic £176 for our school funds.

Thank you to everyone who donated.

Year 4:

Year 4 have been busy this week! They visited Richmond Museum to participate in a Roman workshop; this involved dressing up in lavish togas and playing ancient games.

During lunch break, some children in Year 4 worked very hard to build Mount Vesuvius, the city of Pompeii and even a statue!

Helping Hands Award:

Well done to N in 1D for being awarded the Helping Hands award for always being respectful to other children and adults and consistently helping around the classroom.

Sports Star:

Congratulations to C, who represented the school and scored an excellent goal to win this week's sports award.
